3.60.010 FINDINGS: There is a potential within the unincorporated area of Pottawattamie County, Iowa, and in communities with a population of less than 25, 000 For there to be commercial premises, buildings and structures, or parts thereof, which, could be, by design and use of such premises, buildings or structures conducive to the spread of communicable disease of danger to persons frequenting such premises, buildings and structures, and to the public health, safety and welfare of the community. The health, safety and welfare of all persons in Pottawattamie County, Iowa must be protected through the application and enforcement of standards relating such premises, buildings and structures, in order to eliminate the possibility of the spread of, or infection by, contagious disease. The sexually transmittable disease of acquired immune deficiency syndrome, currently found to be irreversible and uniformly fatal, is found to be of particular danger to persons in this community. The incidence of this disease is found to occur in discernible population groups. The risk factors for obtaining or spreading the disease are associated with high-risk sexual conduct. The commercial premises, buildings and structures where persons are placed at risk of infection from this disease or other communicable disease facilitated by their design or use for high-risk sexual conduct are in need of regulation, and of establishment of minimal standards for prevention of the spread of this disease and other communicable disease for the protection of the public health, safety and welfare of the community.
